This workshop is designed for students writing their bachelor's and master's thesis in English. Participants will discover strategies for gathering and evaluating sources, integrating them into their writing and citing them properly. They will also learn how to enhance their writing process using AI tools without compromising academic integrity. The second part will introduce and help participants test SCITE, the largest AI-powered citation statement database (with 200 million scholarly sources), with its many features, such as Smart Citations, AI Assistant, and a literature search engine.

Outline:

- Gathering and evaluating sources
- In-text citations
- Scite
- Scite features
- Discussion
