EUROPEAN UNIVERSITIES STUDENT COMPETITION ON ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE

TO PROMOTE SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT AND ADDRESS CLIMATE CHANGE

Awards Ceremony 15th January 2026 | Hamburg, Germany

What is it about?

The European Universities Competition on Artificial Intelligence to Promote Sustainable Development and Address Climate Change invites students to propose innovative AI-driven solutions that tackle sustainability challenges and contribute to addressing climate change.

The competition aims to:

- Encourage interdisciplinary collaboration among students, researchers, and faculty across European universities.
- Promote the development of AI applications that support the UN Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs).
- Highlight the role of AI in creating solutions for climate change mitigation and adaptation.

3 GRAND PRIZES OF 4,000€ EACH, ACROSS 2 CATEGORIES

Who can participate?

Undergraduate, master's, and PhD students currently enrolled at universities in Europe are invited to apply. Students from diverse academic backgrounds are welcome, including Computer Science, Engineering, Environmental Sciences, Business, and more
