Wednesday 18.6. 2025, 9.00 – 12:00
UK 220 (PhD Academy)

In the rapidly evolving landscape of academic/ research writing, Artificial Intelligence (AI) tools offer exciting new possibilities to streamline and enhance our writing processes. We invite you to a practical, hands-on workshop designed to equip you with the skills to effectively leverage cutting-edge AI tools for your academic work.

Join us to explore how platforms like Scite, SciSpace, and Google AI Studio (featuring Gemini models) can assist you from literature discovery to identifying future research trajectories. This interactive session will focus on practical application, allowing you to compare outputs and develop best practices.

- Bring your notebooks to test the tools.
- Make sure you register with SCITE through the Central Library website.
- Make sure you have an active Google account to access Google AI Studio.

Outline:

- Introduction – AI in academic/research writing
- Scite/ SciSpace / Google AI Studio
- Prompting and Hands-on practice
